About

The New Hampshire Association of Special Education Administrators (NHASEA) is honored to present Larry Elliott, the Director of Student Services for the Kearsarge Regional School District, as the 2024 Special Education Administrator of the Year. Larry is a proven systems leader and an inspiration to his educational community. Larry is recognized for his ability to inspire others, his attention to the individual needs of all children, youth and their families, dynamic leadership skills, and for the lasting impact he has had upon school culture throughout SAU 65. Larry's strengths include effective communication skills, professionalism, community involvement and creativity in ensuring that the needs of students with exceptionalities are met. In addition to his work as a Special Education Administrator, Larry is actively involved in many local and statewide task forces, committees, initiatives and has served on the Board of Directors for the NHASEA. Larry is a strong leader committed to the success of all children, especially those who are exceptional learners.
